

NEW FICTION TITLES FOR THE HIGH SCHOOL
MARCH, 2007
DONATED BY PSI IOTA XI SORORITY

Breathless
by Pam Withers

Beverly gets into serious trouble when her starvation diet interferes with her scuba diving.

Exposure
by Patricia Murdoch

Julie, tired of being bullied and not fitting in, gets a chance for revenge when her brother captures her chief tormentor, Dana, in a compromising position, but she learns that getting even does not feel as good as she thought it would.

Juice
by Eric Walters

When Coach Reeves retired, he was replaced by Coach Barnes, whose own determination to obtain a college post rested on his ability to create a division one high school team; however, to do this involved the illegal distribution of steroids to the team.

Skeleton Man
by Joseph Bruchac

After her parents disappear and she is turned over to the care of a strange "great-uncle," Molly must rely on her dreams about an old Mohawk story for her safety and maybe even for her life.

Something Girl
by Beth Goobie

Sophie lives in constant fear of her father, who beats her on a regular basis, until the day the beating is so severe it sends her to the hospital

Stuffed
by Eric Walters

Ian, inspired by a documentary on fast food, starts an online boycott of Frankie's fast food restaurants that multiplies to the extent that it attracts the attention of the company's lawyers and eventually forces the chain to add healthy choices to its menu.

Under the Baseball Moon
By John Ritter

Andy and Glory, two fifteen-year-olds from Ocean Beach, California, pursue their respective dreams of becoming a famous musician and a professional softball player.

Yellow Line
by Sylvia Olsen

In a small Canadian community, the line separating Natives and whites begins to blur for Vince as finds himself falling for a First Nations girl.